I've been seeing my boyfriend for nearly three months. He was really nice to start with. He took me out, bought me gifts and everything! Now he doesn't seem to trust me and wants to know where I am all the time, who I'm with and who I'm talking to.

He doesn't like my friends and doesn't want me going around them. I've tried talking to him but he says it's only because he cares about me and I should be happy he cares so much.

He says most girls would love to have him, as he's a real man who knows how to take care of his girlfriend and take control. How can I make him listen to me?

I hate my new stepdad he's a real creep.
My mum says she loves him and I just have to get on with him for her sake. He's always shouting at her and at me.

She says he he's just going through a difficult time at work and we have to be patient and not put more pressure on him.

He can be really nice buying gifts one minute and screaming and shouting the next. I don't know what to do, I'm so unhappy with this situation

I slept with my girlfriend one night when we both had too much to drink.

She's saying it was a mistake now and wishes it hadn't happened. She told me she doesn't want it to happen again.

I can't understand why she doesn't want it to happen again. It won't make a difference as she's not a virgin anymore.

How can I make her do it? Or should I just finish with her as she obviously doesn't love me if she won't do it again.
